Dear conference participants,

It is my great pleasure to welcome you to the Uppsala-BASEES conference, “Regimes and Societies in Conflict: Eastern Europe and Russia since 1956”. Over the last 60 years, Eastern Europe and Russia have seen dramatic shifts in the political, economic and cultural landscape, from monolithic dictatorships to a variety of contemporary politics. In an era in which new lines of divisions are being drawn and Europe is once again facing the challenge of discord between East and West, this conference provides the opportunity to reflect on the changes in the region and learn from the past. There is a truly impressive variety of papers and presentations, with all the major disciplines in the social sciences and humanities represented. It is indeed a true multidisciplinary conference with cutting-edge research. I am particularly delighted that BASEES has decided to organize this conference in Uppsala in collaboration with the Institute for Russian and Eurasian Studies (IRES), Uppsala University. On behalf of IRES and the BASEES committee, I wish you a very good conference!

Claes Levinsson, Head of Department at IRES
Message from the President of BASEES

Dear Conference Delegates,

In 2016 the Committee of the British Association for Slavonic and East-Central European Studies, approved a plan to hold a European regional conference to take place at some time between the annual conference, which is held in Cambridge UK in April. The reasoning behind the proposal partly came out of the recent “Brexit vote” in the UK and the BASEES committee wanted to strengthen our links with our mainland European colleagues for the bumpy road ahead. In the last decade, BASEES has drawn an increasingly larger number of its members from Europe and the countries of the former Soviet bloc and approximately half of the delegates at the annual conference come from Europe. We hoped with a regional conference that provide scholars, who are unable to make the journey to Cambridge or who know little of our activities, with the opportunity to get to know BASEES.

We were delighted when our outreach to Uppsala met with a positive response. IRES in the University of Uppsala in recent years has confirmed its reputation as an exciting centre for Russian and Eurasian Studies. Places on its guest-research program are much sought after among young scholars in Russian and Eurasian studies and imaginative new appointments have helped extend IRES’s international reputation as a centre of excellence in our area.

BASEES is particularly grateful to the effort that the Institute’s Director Claes Levinsson put into this joint project. I can honestly say that without his enthusiastic backing the conference would not have got off the ground. And many thanks are also due to the BASEES home team, led by former president, Peter Waldron.

I wish all delegates a successful conference.

Prof Judith Pallot, President of BASEES
Delegate Guide

The conference will be held in the University Main Building, which is located in the city center, approximately 10-15 minutes by foot from Uppsala Train Station. The street address is Biskopsgatan 3. Conference sessions will be held in lecture halls on Floors 1 & 2. Signs to assist you will be in place. Please wear your delegate badge at all times in the University Main Building.

Pre-booked accommodation is provided in four different hotels, all situated in the city center: Akademihotellet, Hotell Stella, Hotel CityStay and Park Inn by Radisson Uppsala.

Maps
Please scan the QR codes for maps of the University Main Building and Uppsala city center.

Internet Access
To access the internet, please use Eduroam as the primary choice. The University Main Building also provides Wi-Fi access through the network “UU-Guest”. Access to the network is provided on a 24-hour basis and you need to have a mobile phone to be able to receive the login information. If choosing “UU-Guest”, please follow the instructions that will appear in your web browser. The log-in process will take a few minutes to complete.

Relations between Russia and the EU are going through the deepest crisis since the end of the Cold War. Sanctions continue to be renewed and trust remains at an all-time low. Yet, the relations are also fraught with ambiguity. Bilateral contacts between Moscow and capitals of EU countries seem to flourish and in sectors like energy pragmatism reigns. How deep then is the crisis? And what is at stake? Is the confrontation about counter-hegemony and ultimately the reversal of the – already weakened - Euro-Atlantic ‘liberal’ order, as Russian diplomacy heralds? How should we understand Moscow’s use of a full array of power means? And is Russia punching above its weight or has the crisis catalysed its return to ‘one hundred years of geopolitical solitude’, as Vladislav Surkov suggested? This lecture seeks to add some nuance to current debates, challenging the idea that the Cold War has made a comeback and disentangling the complexity of current power dynamics.

Dr Tom Casier is Jean Monnet Chair and Reader in International Relations at the Brussels School of International Studies (BSIS), the Brussels campus of the University of Kent. He led BSIS as Academic Director from 2014 to 2017. He is also Visiting Professor at the University of Leuven (since 2011).
Tom Casier teaches on Russian foreign policy, International Relations and political development in Central and Eastern Europe.

Dr Casier’s research focuses mainly on Russian foreign policy and EU-Russia relations, with a particular interest in power and identity. An edited volume (with Joan DeBardeleben) entitled EU-Russia Relations in Crisis: Understanding Diverging Perceptions was published with Routledge in 2018. Recent articles have appeared in Cooperation and Conflict, Geopolitics, International Politics, Contemporary Politics, Europe-Asia Studies and others.

Tom Casier coordinated an EU funded Jean Monnet multilateral research project on EU-Russia relations, with the University of Carleton, St. Petersburg State University and Johannes Gutenberg University Mainz. He regularly provides policy advice for different institutions and organisations.
